From the right the Printing Press should be the tyrant, the champion of the free; faithful and constant to its sacred trust; calm in its utterance; in its judgments just; wise in its teaching; fearless and strong; to speed the right and to denounce the wrong.

PULASKI, TENN.

FRIDAY MORNING, OCT. 19, 1866.

THE GREAT SOUTHERN RELIEF FAIR AT St. Louis.—St. Louis papers are filled with glowing accounts of the successful inauguration in that city, recently, of the great Southern Relief Fair, and devote a large portion of their space to descriptive details of its grand features, and the rich and lavish donations which have been sent by the generous from all parts of the Union.

The Republican commences its long four column description as follows:

"Nothing in the history of St. Louis can compare with the grand and signal triumph of this great enterprise. It commenced in weakness, with a thousand bad prejudices to battle against. Although its objects were the highest and holiest known in the language of earth—the rescue of helpless widows and orphans made such by the events of a terrible war—it met with a shrill from the liberal and open espousal, while others attempted to cast odium upon the whole project because the effort was in favor of a people that were lately in arms against the Government. The latter, however, compose a lean and mean minority of a great hearted people, and the magnificent popular demonstrations at the fair is a terrible rebuke to the whole race of political and social Pharisees."

The Confederate Dead at Shiloh. It is stated that Mrs. A. M. Meeker, of Adams, Ga., has inaugurated a plan to purchase a portion of the battle ground at Shiloh, for the interment of the lamented Gen. A. S. Johnson and his gallant soldiers. Through the noble exertions of this lady, the success of the undertaking is far advanced. Mrs. Meeker, we understand, is canvassing the States to appoint agents for the receipt of money that may be donated in aid of the accomplishment of the object by the securing of the ground and the establishment of a cemetery. The bones of many of the Confederate dead lie exposed and bleaching at Shiloh, and it is the duty of every Christian man and woman in the South to contribute as largely as practicable in aid of this meritorious effort to effect their decent burial and protection in the manner proposed by Mrs. Meeker.

The Norfolk Old Dominion says: "Southern ladies do not talk anything like as much as in former years. What does it mean? Are we wrong in classing this phenomenon among the signs of the times? We believe it is the result of a mysterious solemnity that has in the last few years of trial and mighty events crept over the South. Levity is not as widespread. Men and women look now more earnest, and work harder; do more towards carrying out the end of their being. We may be wrong, but such are our convictions, in spite of the wickedness abroad in the land."

Meteors Expected. On the 13th or 14th of November next, says Professor Newton of Yale College, a prodigious flight of meteors, the most imposing of its kind, will make its appearance, probably for the last time in this century. Only thirteen of these meteoric showers are recorded between the years of 903 and 1835. That of the latter year was a sub-time spectacle.

Arago computes that not less than two hundred and forty thousand meteors were visible above the horizon of Boston on the morning of the 13th of November, 1835. This display was seen all over North America. A similar display was seen by Humboldt at Cuzco, South America, in 1839.

The Johnson Party. When the smoke clears away, says the Memphis Ledger, it will be perceived that the friends of the President in the North, though defeated, are numbered by the millions; and are not to be despised. The Radicals triumphed, but such a triumph! So great a party as the Conservative party is cannot be intimidated or ridden over. In intelligence it is superior, in muscle it is equal to its enemy. Combined with the South, it is the majority of the American people.

Immigration to the South.—The Baltimore Transcript says: "We are pleased to learn that preliminary steps are being taken toward an initiation of an enterprise, under the title of 'The American Immigration Homestead Company,' for the purpose of inviting emigration directly from Europe to the Southern States. A line of steamships will be established in connection with this enterprise, and agencies are to be established at each of the principal points from which European emigrants depart for America, where will be found the maps, plans and all particulars necessary to enable the emigrant to decide intelligently as to the value and other inducements attached to each parcel of land offered for sale."

The passenger fare on the Virginia and Tennessee railroad has been reduced to four cents per mile.

It is said that Catholics and Protestants are to exhibit the evidences of their missionary labors at the Paris Exhibition.

Brownlow says he "wants to make loyalty respectable." Then let him quit it.—N. Y. World.

The census of Chattanooga, just completed, shows a total population of 10,250. Whites, 6,870; blacks, 3,380.

The Union and American thinks the cotton crop of Middle Tennessee is turning out better than was anticipated a few weeks since.

GEN. BEAUREGARD arrived at New York from Havre on the 11th inst., and passed through Washington on his way South on the 12th.

The only descendant of Christopher Columbus, lives at Rome, and is to visit America next year. He is described as a genial man of sixty.

The people of Clarksville, with a praiseworthy liberality, have purchased a farm and are providing buildings for destitute orphans of Tennessee.

JOHN G. Saxe, the poet, said in a recent speech: "I never heard Andrew Johnson called a traitor without almost forgetting my manners, and remembering only my muscles."

A member of the Canadian Cabinet says that the troops sent there from England were intended for more serious contingencies than those presented by the Fenian raids.

BARROW BROWNLOW, the polecat of the Fresh-pot Convention, "done his level best" to bring that assembly into bad order, but Jack Hamilton "skunked" him.

Mrs. Ford, of Monroe county, Kentucky gave birth, on the 16th ult., to three children, all boys, weighing 7½ pounds each. All are living and healthy. Names—Geo. D. Prentiss, Robert E. Lee, and Jefferson Davis.

The friends of the Administration, who have access to the Executive, declare that he will adhere to his policy, and that he will favor the ratification of no constitutional amendment that is not adopted by a Congress where all the States are represented.

THERE is a negro in Philadelphia whose feet measure twenty-nine inches. A Lynchburg paper thinks the Radicals ought to secure them for a radical platform. The La Crosse Democrat says they would do finely if cased in Brownlow's dirty stockings.

Most of the Southern papers, commenting on the Northern elections, declare that the result was what they anticipated. None of the Virginia, South Carolina, or Georgia papers advocate the adoption of the constitutional amendments. "One or two in North Carolina favor it."

A woman in New York, Mrs. Elizabeth Colly Spolven, announces herself in the morning papers of the 11th inst., as a candidate for Congress. She professes independent principles, but is known to be a Radical sympathizer.

It is ascertained by the cholera returns in London, that the cases were always heavier on Mondays and Tuesdays than on any other days, owing to greater drunkenness which prevails on Saturday night, often extending over Sunday morning.

THERE was a great fire in Quebec, C. E., on the night of the 14th inst.—2,300 houses were destroyed, and 20,000 people are without shelter. On the 16th $1,500,000 had been subscribed by the fortunate of that city for the relief of the sufferers.

JAMES ANTISSEL, President, and James O'Brien and P. A. Flynn, Secretaries of the "Central Executive Committee of Irish Citizens at Washington, D. C.," have issued an address to their countrymen throughout the United States, urging them to rally to the support of the President's plan of restoration, for reasons fully set forth in the address.

Death of Hon. John Van Buren. New York, Oct. 16.—Hon. John Van Buren died on board the Scotia on the 14th inst., two days before the steamer arrived at this port. He was returning from a tour in Scotland, whither he has been for the benefit of his health, which for some time past has been visibly declining.

The Congress that voted $2,000 additional pay to "members," also voted to reduce the pay of officers of the regular army. Before the war a Captain's pay was $150 in gold, now it is only $160 in paper, the XXXIX Congress repealing the law that increased their pay during the war. Economy is the road to wealth.

EAST TENNESSEE is loyal, and most truly loyal, but the people are not at this time supporters of Brownlow and his negro equality clique. The true loyal soldier will not vote beside the negro. The true loyal man and citizen will not admit the negro to his parlor or permit him to marry their daughters. This is what the next Legislature will try to force on Tennessee. The Governor says they will enfranchise the negro, and having disfranchised a large portion of the white population, they hope to succeed. We have but few radicals of the Brownlow school in East Tennessee.—Athens Press.

Death of Dr. Baldwin. Dr. S. D. BALDWIN died in Nashville on the 8th inst., about 8 o'clock in the evening. The Danner, of the 9th, says: "He was taken with what his physicians pronounced cholera about a week ago, and, after much suffering, he passed the crisis of the disease, and was thought to be beyond danger. But, after several days, he relapsed, and has gradually declined, until last night his bright spirit became unfettered, and he is with us no more. * * * Few men have lived who leave a fairer name than S. D. Baldwin. Mistaken he may have been at times, but honest always. Brave in his thoughts, as in all things else, he was reverent and went wherever duty prompted."

"Since the beginning of this pestilence, which, when he was smitten, was subsiding, he has taken his life in his own hand and gone wherever there was suffering and death, and, by his exhortation and example, led their thoughts and hearts to that heaven whither he has gone."

"There is no language of eulogy which we can employ in this brief announcement that could do justice to his memory. A great chasm in the ranks of life is made, and we look around hopelessly for some one to fill it. Peace and tears to his memory."

It will be remembered that Dr. Baldwin was the author of "Armageddon."

A correspondent of the London Times, who witnessed the "Southern Foyalist" procession, in Philadelphia, writes:

"The hero of the procession was Parson Brownlow, who was the only delegate honored with a seat in an open carriage, and he conducted himself in a manner highly characteristic. Reclining upon the back seat, he managed in some unaccountable way to extend his legs entirely over the front seat, which was occupied by two unfortunate members of the 'League,' and, utterly regardless of their comfort, to plant his feet alongside of the coachman in front. In this novel manner the Parson rode along, viewing the world between his toes, and presenting a most startling picture of vulgar ease."

A Dreadful Tragedy.—A Father Killed by His Son.

The Union and American, of 17th inst., has the following: "A gentleman from Giles county informs us that Mr. J. H. Lane, a respectable citizen residing near Lynchville, was shot and instantly killed by his son, Joseph Lane, a lad some sixteen or seventeen years of age. We were unable to gather the particulars, further than that the older Lane, having returned home intoxicated, was offering some violence to his wife, when the son coming to her relief was assailed by his father, armed with a large knife. Escape being out of, he is believed to have fired the fatal shot in defense of his own life. Whatever may be the facts, it is a most heart-rending and deplorable calamity."

The tragedy above referred to occurred some two weeks since, but owing to the conflict in reports we deferred making an item of it at the time, hoping to get a correct report, in which, however, we have been disappointed.

INFORMATION WANTED.—During the fight and stampede of Wheeler's cavalry at Shelbyville, Tenn., about the 22d of June, 1863, my oldest son, J. W. Musgrove (a Lieutenant in the 1st Ala. Cavalry, Confederate), was, as I learned, wounded and captured. I have never learned what became of him after his capture. Any information about him will be thankfully received by P. M. MUSGROVE, Blountsville, Ala.

Papers North and South will confer a favor by inserting the above. P. M. M.

It is reported that Secretary McCulloch's statement of the condition of the Public Debt, to be issued in a few days, will show a net decrease in the amount of indebtedness since August, 1865, of $161,570,108, or about one-sixth of the whole debt at that time, when it had reached its highest point. At this rate, even with the present imperfect system of taxation, the whole debt, principle and interest, would be paid in fifteen years from the present time.—Ex.

Hon. H. L. W. HILL, the largest fruit grower in Warren county, says the McMinville New Era, is manufacturing from his orchards four barrels of brandy per day—each barrel containing forty gallons—equal to one hundred and sixty gallons. On this amount, at $1.50 per gallon as a tax, he has to pay as a revenue two hundred and forty dollars per day.

The ill-fated Evening Star, whose loss at sea, one day last week, has been ascertained, had on board ninety old women of ill fame from New York bound for social hell of New Orleans. The vessel has been engulfed in the angry waves of the sea, and every soul on board swept into eternity.

Since the above were in type we learn that eighteen persons were saved by passing vessels after the sinking of the Evening Star, only two of which, however, were of the "ninety old" females above mentioned.

GEN. A. BUFORD, who was one of the ablest, most gallant and dashing officers of the Confederate service, was of the old U. S. army, is now the chief lessee of the Woodlawn race course, near Louisville. In company with the other managers he has determined to appropriate the entire receipts of to-day to the relief of the suffering poor of the South.—Nash. Banner, 17th.
